Concept Summary

Describe the need/challenge that your school seeks to address and identify how this need/challenge is outlined in your school

During the 2-week EOC testing window, the entire school's schedule is disrupted and students are missing academic learning opportunities. In addition, due to the need for examiners during EOC testing, students that do not have an EOC scheduled are may not be able to meet with their regular teachers during this testing window. By not having strategic plan.

access to a regular class schedule and teachers, student learning opportunities are decreased for almost 2 full

Describe the proposed concept, and explain how it addresses the need/challenge identified above.

Centennial High School would like to run a flexible testing schedule during the Georgia Milestone End of Course (EOC) assessment window in the spring. All students who are scheduled to take their required EOC would report to school at the regular start time during this window. Those students not in an EOC related class would have the opportunity to report at the regular start time, or report approximately 3 hours later for an abbreviated school day.

Project Outcomes

Short-Term Goals

Long-Term Outcomes

Students and teachers will be able to maintain consistent instruction and engagement during the EOC administration window. Centennial will also be able to better ensure that the EOC testing administration is monitored more efficiently.

Consistent instruction by teachers for student engagement. Better monitoring of the EOC testing environment. Increased opportunities for students to receive remediation and recovery for mastery of curriculum.

The EOC administration will no longer be a two-week window of student monitoring with little instruction or engagement. Centennial will be able to provide robust learning throughout the entire school year with no extended interruptions.

+ Add new row

Include any research or evidence that the concept will positively affect your school's student population. If no research exists, please articulate the rationale for the likelihood of success of the concept and describe your plans for risk mitigation.

At a minimum, students required to take an EOC in Language Arts are missing six hours of instruction per test and students required to take an EOC in Science, Social Studies, and Math are missing three hours of instruction per test. By holding all testing sessions in the morning on assigned days and running a modified schedule in the afternoon, we anticipate missed instructional time will be decreased by at least 50%.

Will the RFF require an exchange of student information? Either being sent to or received from an outside source (i.e. vendor, agency)?

No

Does the RFF require a change/modification to your typical business practices with the SIS?
Examples may include significant bell schedule changes, grading changes, process changes that impact data collection (using a different tool to take attendance).

No

Transportation:

Will transportation be required?

Yes

If so, how many students, what are the hours required, and is there funding already available?

Depending upon the day, anywhere from approximtely 1/2 to 3/4 of the students are not in EOC testing, so would be eligible for the second bus run. The second run would need to be approximately 3 hours after the first. Yes, we have FY18 Flexible funds that we carried over.

CSAT Feedback

-Please submit a mock up of the schedule of what the day would look like during the EOC window. What time exactly will students need to arrive to school? What will the schedule look like for the rest of the day?
- What will happen in the morning for students who come to school for breakfast or who ride the bus first thing but are not taking an EOC? Where will those students go and who will be monitoring them?
- Transportation will be able to accomodate this, however it will be approximately $100 per bus per day. The cost you have outlined above should cover the buses needed.

- We are getting a possible final dollar amount, but there may be an additional cost incurred because breakfast is not being held for the entire student body, so there may be lost revenue that will need to be covered for school nutrition.
